DEFEAT ON THREE WAR FRONTS

Four Japanese destroyers were sunk and a fifth damaged Thursday by American bombers that thwarted an attempt to reinforce crumbling enemy positions off northwestern New Guinea, southwest Pacific headquarters announced today (Saturday).

A Japanese task force of six destroyers and a cruiser was spotted off Manokwari, Dutch New Guinea, 150 miles west of Black Island where U. S. Sixth army troops have seized one air-drome within bombing range of the Philippines and are preparing to drive on two others.

Two Warships Escape
While Lightnings engaged intercepting Zeros, ten Billy Mitchell medium bombers attacked the Nipponese flotilla at masthead height. After four destroyers were sunk by direct hits and the fifth damaged, the cruiser and the remaining destroyer fled.

Five Zeros were shot down out of ten interceptors. Three American planes were the only ones paid for the Japanese defeat. Three other Zeros were shot down Wednesday out of a flight of 25 interceptors over Truk. One bomber was lost in that Caroline island raid.

The air-sea battle is reminiscent of Japanese attempts to reinforce their beleaguered armies in the Solomons. So far this week southwest Pacific headquarters has announced the sinking of five Japanese destroyers, and the damaging of two destroyers and one cruiser. These are the first naval casualties in this area in months.

Burma Bases Encircled
New Japanese war clouds threatened unoccupied sections of north-central China yesterday (Friday) as Allied troops took advantage of a break in the monsoons to push the enemy back in Burma and India.

Chinese - American soldiers seized one of Myitkyna's northern airdromes. Airlifted Chinidits took a village north of the encircled enemy base in north Burma. Chinese captors of Myitkyna's southern airstrip penetrated deeper into the town itself from the south.

To the west Chinese closed in from the four points of the compass on Kamaing, Mogaung valley strong point. Two villages were seized, a quantity of material captured and 300 Nipponese killed. The Chinese are from six to twelve miles from Kamaing.

Allies began encircling the third Japanese north Burma base - Mogaung. It is southeast of Kamaing and southwest of Myitkyna. Infantrymen occupied a village south of Mogaung, inflicting severe casualties. Chinidits established strong hill positions east of the base.

Honan Drive Resumed
British troops in India pushed 14 miles south from Kohima and drove north from Imphal. A long-held Japanese roadblock was clamped between the two forces. Nipponese concentrations in north China indicated Tokyo was preparing for a three-fold renewal of the Honan province offensive. Apparent objectives were a drive into northwestern Honan and neighboring Shensi province, a smash into southwestern Honan, and recapture of 70 miles of the Peiping-Hankow railway in central Honan.

German Sneak Raid
At Normandy Fails;
Destroyers Shot Up

BY NED NORDNESS

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Saturday, June 10 (AP)—Eight British, Canadian and Polish destroyers intercepted four German destroyers apparently bent on a sneak smash at the Allied Normandy coast line before dawn yesterday, blowing up one of them, chasing another aground in flames and scoring hits on the other two which escaped, a communique announced early today.

The grounded enemy vessel was believed to have been finished off later by a bombing attack. This point-blank engagement, which cost the Allies damage and a few casualties on only one ship, the British destroyer Tartar, was the most dramatic of three.

Senate Votes Increase
Of $5 And $10 For Infantry

Washington, June 9 (AP)—Legislation adding $5 and $10 a month to the pay of fighting infantrymen and boosting the wages of glider units, to conform generally with those of paratroopers was approved today by the senate military committee.

Acting on Secretary of War Stimson's assertion that current operations have demonstrated "the importance of highly trained, tough and aggressive infantry," the committee unanimously reported out one measure that would:

Increase by $5 the monthly pay of infantrymen who attain a standard of proficiency or perform satisfactorily in action, and provide a $10 monthly boost as recognition of exemplary conduct in action or satisfactory duty in a "major" operation.

Then it approved another measure which would add up to 50 percent to the pay of members of glider units, with the limitation that officers, warrant officers and nurses be held to increases of $100 a month and enlisted men to $50 a month.

INVASION TASKMUNICH BATTERED BY ITALY-BASED BOMBERS

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Saturday, June 10 (AP)—RAF heavy bombers roared out in strength last night, heading toward France to resume the air support of the invasion after an all-day lull imposed by bad weather.

During Friday between 500 and 750 American heavy bombers crossed the Alps from Italy and hammered targets in the Munich area of southern Germany, but the weather over the English channel was so bad that for the first time since D-Day there were no daylight operations from Britain in support of the invasion.

Clouds Hang Low
Official reports also failed to mention any Allied airborne operations during Thursday night.

The weather, a source of constant anxiety, crippled the aerial offensive with rain and low clouds cutting visibility. Late today there had been no reported improvement in the situation.

The Italian-based bombers flew into the Munich area for the first time, and their escorting Lightnings, Mustangs and Thunderbolts fought through swarms of German fighters. Swiss dispatches said explosives were dropped in the Munich and Augsburg sectors.

Other U. S. heavy bomber formations attacked Porto Marghera near Venice, and fighter-bombers pounded German columns retreating above Rome.

GUILTY BY JURY

Father Of Executed Nazi
Saboteur Is Convicted
Again Of Treason

Chicago, June 9 (AP)—Hans Max Haupt, German born paper hanger and father of an executed Nazi saboteur, was convicted a second time today of treason against his adopted country.

A federal district court jury of six men and six women reached a verdict this afternoon after deliberating since 11:20 a. m. (CWT) yesterday.

Haupt first was convicted of treason in November, 1942, and was sentenced to death but the United States circuit court of appeals granted him a new trial.

The government contended Haupt harbored his son Herbert, one of eight Nazi saboteurs who were brought to the United States in German submarines in June, 1942, with instructions to paralyze American war industries.

Haupt and his conspirators were captured promptly by the FBI and he and five of them were put to death in Washington after a trial by a military tribunal in August, 1942.

How Russia Says 'Welcome'

BY EDDY GILMORE

A U. S. Airbase Somewhere in the Soviet Union, (AP)—The Fifteenth Airforce is the toast in this corner of the Soviet Union.

American and British correspondents journeyed here to observe what kind of a welcome this great flock of flying fortresses got from the Russian people, seeing for the first time such things as American heavy bombers in their skies and GI's in their streets.

"It is wonderful," said a commander from Upper New York of flowers around my neck. I never saw so many flowers. I think they must have had a truckload at the airfield."

One major came up and said: "Look what I got. A Russian gave me his cigarette lighter. He made me take it."

"Look what I got," said Major Joseph Cunningham of Milton, Mass. "The Red Army, Red Star Button, I'm wearing it on my cap."

Ste. Mere Eglise
Taken, Road And Railway Severed

BY JAMES M. LONG

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Saturday, June 10. (AP)—Allied air power roared back to the support of the French invasion during the night after bad weather that found the American, British and Canadian ground forces advancing against hard-fighting Germans on the Cherbourg peninsula and southwest of Bayeux without their accustomed aerial aid.

Shortly before dawn today it was announced that RAF heavy bombers went out over France in strength during the darkness. Their targets were not disclosed immediately.

Flying Wedge Scores

Even without the vital weapon of air support, Allied headquarters announced in a post-midnight communique that an American flying wedge of paratroopers and infantrymen had cut the main German communications lines to the potentially great landing-port of Cherbourg by capturing the town of Ste. Mere Eglise and sweeping on across the broad-gauge Cherbourg peninsula railway and the parallel highway in heavy fighting, and that repeated German naval attempts to interfere with the beachhead operations had been nipped at their inception.

The communique gave these additional points in reporting the fourth day of the Allied invasion of Normandy:

Gains Beyond Bayeux

Further Allied gains have been made west and southwest of captured Bayeux;

Heavy fighting continues in all areas;

Fighting is severe in the area of Caen, where the Germans are making a desperate effort to stop the British-Canadian advance;

The weight of armor on both sides is increasing;

Numerous enemy strong-points that originally were bypassed have now been eliminated;

The weather has deteriorated but the beachhead nevertheless are being developed steadily;

Poor visibility and stormy weather cut air activity to a minimum;

Eight British, Canadian and Polish destroyers blew up a German destroyer, ran another aground and damaged two off Ushant Island near the Brittany peninsula before dawn Friday; and an American-led destroyer

BOYS 10 AND 12
CATCH PRISONER

Escaper From Ionia Is Marched Out At Point Of 22

Ionia, Mich., June 9 (AP)—Two boys, one ten years old and the other 12, hunting crows today with a .22 rifle, captured a husky 22-year-old trusty who had fled from a state reformatory farm gang a few hours earlier.

At the point of their rifle, Jack Theisen, 10, and Benny Tower, 12, marched their prisoner to the Saranac, Mich., railroad station, nine miles west of Ionia, where they turned him over to Frank Kelly, a reformatory guard.

The recaptured trusty is Jay Duncan, sentenced from Detroit for larceny. He escaped by running across a railroad bridge over the Grand River and losing pursuers in the underbrush.

Kelly, one of several guards participating in a search, was posted at the Saranac station where, late this morning, Benny and Jack trudged up and asked what he was doing.

He told them, adding, "why don't you go get this fellow?"

This afternoon the boys returned, herding Duncan ahead of them. They said they found him near the river bank, and took turns holding the gun while fences and other obstructions were crossed, on their return trip.

Work Docket About
Cleared Of Strikes

(By The Associated Press)
The nation's work docket last (Friday) night virtually was cleared of strikes.

Day-by-day surveys had found as many as 50,000 idle in labor disputes in recent weeks, but the total now has dropped off to only 2,600 out in two remaining controversies.

The War Labor Board reported the European invasion had put a curb on work stoppages and that for the first time since the agency was set up in January, 1924, not a single strike was in its hands.

Tiny Unsuspecting
Tug Goes Into War
Unarmed On D-Day

BY TOM YARBROUGH

London, June 9 (AP)—How the "Empire Folk," an unarmed and unsuspecting tiny British harbor tug, went gallantly off to the wars on D-Day amid a fleet of invasion giants, was disclosed today.

On the eve of the assault an LCT, loaded with ammunition, balked with engine trouble just outside the harbor and the tug-boat was sent out to help. Instead of hauling the landing craft back to port—it towed the ship to France.

The "Empire Folk" spent an uncomfortable 20 minutes two miles off one of the assault beaches and then headed back to England, pulling another landing craft which had been ripped open by underwater obstruction after landing her troops.

The skipper of the "Empire Folk," a 41-year-old north countryman named Arthur Hall, and a veteran of 21 years in tugs, said he had no idea the invasion was on when he got the call to help the LCT Monday night.

He pulled his harbor ragamuffin along side the bulky and helpless LCT and said: "We are going to take you back to port."

"You are going to take us to France," Hall said he got as a reply.

"I thought he was pulling my leg," Hall related, "but pretty soon the cruiser Scylla pulled up and Admiral Sir Phillip Vian told us to take the LCT in tow and head for France."

Hall and his begrimed crew of 11 rose to the occasion.

"The commanding officer of the LCT had to come aboard and show us the way," Hall continued.

"We didn't know the course through the mine-swept channel—and we didn't know it was an ammunition ship, either, until we came aboard."

"If we had we would have given her a longer tow line," the first mate put in sharply.

BELGIAN COAST
PUSH PREDICTED

Berlin Says Allies Are Poised For Additional Landings Soon

BY RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

London, June 9 (AP)—German broadcasts predicted today that the Allies would invade Belgium soon "between Dunkerque and Ostende," and said that airborne reinforcements on that airborne front were helping to pack an Allied punch in an increasingly bitter battle of Normandy.

"Predicting the new invasion, the German radio said:

"Divisions ready in northeast England x x x and Scotland have not yet been thrown into the fight. It can be assumed a big part of these forces will be thrown into some invasion attempt which should start within the next few days."

"Combined action is being expected somewhere between Dunkerque and Ostende. For this, special Canadian troops are in readiness as well as several airborne and very strong tank divisions. Apart from Montgomery's army, Eisenhower has at his disposal more than 50 divisions, half of which are allocated for the French-Belgian expedition."

After claiming yesterday that the Allied beachheads were being narrowed by Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel's counter blows, Nazi broadcasters today conceded the main bridgehead had been widened.

They acknowledged three Allied advances inland—a five-mile wedge driven southwest of Bayeux toward St. Lo; a six-mile advance west of Bayeux "where spearheads of German counterattacks now stand," and an advance of over a mile by Americans from fallen Ste. Mere Eglise toward Valognes on the road to Cherbourg.

Amendment Tacked
To Price Control
Unwanted By OPA

Washington, June 9 (AP)—The administration suffered a major reverse tonight when the Senate passed a price control extension bill bearing the controversial Bankhead amendment providing for adjustment of textile ceilings with a view to raising the price of raw cotton.

The amendment, which OPA Administrator Chester Bowles warned would "shatter the entire stabilization structure," was approved 39 to 35. Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) denied it was inflationary.

It was tacked onto the bill extending the Price and Wage Stabilization Act to Dec. 31, 1945. The measure now goes to the House.

FLEEING NAZIS
KEPT ON RUN
ENEMY FORCES
JOIN RETREAT

BY EDWARD KENNEDY

Rome, June 9 (AP)—Pursuing the shattered German 14th army at continued breakneck pace northwest of Rome, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army forces swept through the communication centers of Viterbo, Vetralla and Tarquinia today as Nazi troops in the Adriatic sector joined the general enemy flight up the Italian peninsula.

Viterbo, a vital highway and rail junction 40 miles from Rome, fell before a swift seven-mile thrust from the area of Lake Di Vico. Tarquinia, on the main coastal highway 55 miles northwest of the capital, was seized in a 10-mile stab by Allied troops driving on from the captured port of Civitavecchia. Vetralla is on a lateral highway connecting Viterbo and Tarquinia.

Advance 130 Miles
There yet was no sign that Field Marshal Albert Kesselring had been able to rally his fleeing remnants, and it was doubted here that he would attempt to make another serious stand short of a line beyond Florence, some 150 miles from Rome. Although Clark's forces were averaging roughly 15 miles a day in their grim chase they found it difficult to keep within shooting distance of the Nazis.

Clark's vanguards were more than 130 airline miles from the starting points of the big offensive launched less than a month ago.

A five-month deadlock was broken in the Adriatic sector when the Nazis, after carrying out heavy demolitions, began withdrawing along a five-mile front between the coast and Crechcio. Eighth army forces pressed after them two miles and occupied Tolla, only seven miles from the provincial capital of Chieti. The Germans thus were retreating along virtually the entire width of the peninsula.

British Seize Towns

Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese's main Eighth army continued to meet stiff resistance from German rearguards east of the Tiber but drove some 10 miles beyond Agosta and Palombarasabina. Further east Leese's spearheads approached the village of Civitella Roveto, only seven and a half miles south of Avezzano.

Allied fighters and bombers destroyed another 195 enemy vehicles and 23 rail cars and damaged at least 170 more vehicles in their ceaseless attacks on German transport. The Mediterranean air forces flew 1,500 sorties during the day, losing six planes and destroying four enemy craft.

SCHOOL CHIEF RESIGNS POST

Brant Leaves Menominee
To Become Sup't
At Owosso

Menominee—The Menominee board of education, in special session Wednesday afternoon, released Ralph E. Brant, city superintendent of schools, from his Menominee contract, which has still a year to run, to permit him to accept the superintendency of the public schools at Owosso, Mich. Brant will terminate his local services on August 15.

The Menominee board agreed to the release reluctantly, but felt it should not stand in Brant's way for advancement and a substantial increase in salary, which the Owosso post offers.

Brant came to Menominee a year ago last March from Vassar, Mich., whose board of education likewise released him from contract to permit him to accept the Menominee offer. He succeeded Camden R. Kitson, who died in January, 1943, while in his second year as the local superintendent. Kitson was engaged for the post when John L. Silvernale retired in 1941, after having served for 27 years.

Offer Unsolicited
The Owosso offer to Brant came unsolicited about two weeks ago and after negotiating with the lower Michigan board he was offered a three-year contract with a starting salary of $6,000 which would be increased $250 each year, with stipulation of an ultimate maximum salary of not less than $7,000 a year. Brant's Menominee contract, which runs until June 1945, pays him $5,000 a year.

Aside from the salary aspect Owosso's location made the offer doubly attractive to Brant. It is only 40 miles from his father's 200-acre farm home and the health of the elder Brant failed a year ago, leaving much of the responsibility of overseeing the management of the farm to Supt. Brant. Owosso is also close to Augusta, Mich., home of Mrs. Brant's parents.

Owosso has a population of approximately 18,000 and its high school is in Class A, with an enrollment of about 1,000 students, as compared to Menominee's Class B high school, with about 600 students enrolled in the ninth to twelfth grades. Menominee's entire teaching staff numbers 72, as compared to Owosso's staff of 105 teachers. Brant will succeed Supt. Willman, who headed the Owosso schools for the past 23 years and is retiring this year.

Hull-Roosevelt Plan Not Fully Approved

BY MARQUIS CHILDS
Washington—With Americans fighting and dying on the fields of France once again, it becomes all the more important to understand what kind of world can be salvaged out of the bloody holocaust.

The very fact that victory has been given added importance to discussions centering around the shape of things to come. What really happened in the conferences between Secretary of State Hull and a committee of eight senators over the Hull-Roosevelt plan for world organization has never been told.

People got the impression that a much wider area of agreement was reached than actually was the case. Hull asked the senators to sign a statement approving his plan. At least three out of eight declined.

One Republican Senator replied to Hull by saying that it was asking him to sign the biggest blank check in history. The dissenters felt that the general outline of the plan, as revealed by Hull, had many meritorious features. But they felt also that to approve a well-meaning outline would be to underwrite whatever kind of peace the big three or the big four agreed on.

LaFollette Is Dubious
Further north in disagreement was Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin. He argued that for America to sign up now would be to throw away all our bargaining power at the peace table when our role should be to persuade Britain to take an advanced view about colonies and their eventual liberation.

LaFollette, moreover, felt that the plan itself, as disclosed by Hull, contained some dubious features. The smaller nations, under the Hull-Roosevelt plan, would elect representatives to sit with the Big Four, but their representatives could only ratify action taken by the executive council.

Action by the executive council to enforce the peace could only come if all four members were in agreement. If one member, whose government declined to go along, voted no, then there could be no action. As one of the senate conferees put it: "even the most rabid isolationist couldn't object to that kind of plan."

Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan went almost as far as LaFollette in dissenting. In fact, of the four minority party members, it appears that only Senator Warren Austin of Vermont would be willing to put his signature to a statement okaying the proposal. Austin argued that the plan should be accepted and that then, around the peace table, we should negotiate with Russia and Britain. His point of view was directly contrary to that of Vandenberg and LaFollette.

Welles Attacked Plan
Two things happened during the half dozen talks between the senators and the venerable secretary of state that rather shook the even tenor of the conversations. The first was an address in New York by former undersecretary of state Sumner Welles, whose resignation was forced by Hull a year ago.

Welles attacked the thesis that the Big Four should dominate all decisions. Conceding that they would have to be the final arbiters when it was a question of using power—immediately after the peace, at any rate—he argued for granting smaller states real authority in making other decisions.

Welles' speech impressed the conferees from Capital Hill. Some of them felt that he must have seen a copy of the Hull-Roosevelt plan before he made his speech. They did not see, otherwise, how his criticism could have been aimed so acutely at the administration proposal.

The other event was the appearance of the Forrest Davis

BOOST COLLEGE AT MARQUETTE

Advisory Body Appointed
To Promote Normal School

In an effort to further strengthen the Northern Michigan College of Education here to a point where it will meet more adequately the educational needs of the Upper Peninsula, a newly appointed college advisory committee is meeting in Marquette today.

The meeting was called by Mayor James J. Beckman, Marquette temporary chairman of the committee. In his call he asked committee members, coming from all over the Upper Peninsula, to "feel free to express himself, frankly regarding the college and its program, especially as they relate to curriculum, personnel and physical equipment and the ways and means of increasing enrollment and strengthening the college to a point where it will meet more adequately the educational needs articles in the Saturday Evening Post. With an air of authenticity, they told far more of the president's intentions in the post-war world than had been disclosed to the senators in the course of the discussions.

Add to this the difficulty of two-way communication with Hull. A Democratic senator insisted on knowing whether any commitments had been made at Tehran. Mr. Hull replied with a very long sentence in which, by actual count, the phrase, "or so I am assured," occurred nine times.

But in spite of all difficulties and differences, the senators agree that the conferences were a net gain. While major issues are still to be solved, a beginning at understanding has been made.

of the Peninsula in the period which lies ahead of us."

Appointment of the committee came at the last meeting of the board of directors of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau when it was asserted that the Upper Peninsula has forgotten that it has two fine, state colleges within its boundaries and that it is high time that the people of the Upper Peninsula began to realize that these colleges were their institutions and adopt them as their own.

The committee meeting, the first since its appointment, will open with a dinner at the Northland Hotel, Friday at 6 p. m., followed by a closed session of the committee, Saturday morning the committee will organize and Saturday afternoon it will meet with Dr. H. A. Tape, president of the college, who has been invited to that session for the express purpose of supplying the committee with information on many subjects including: prospects for summer enrollment, over-all cost of summer school, faculty, income from student fees, comparison of enrollment with previous years, proposed changes in curriculum, prospects for fall enrollment, operating budgets for 1944 and 1945 and nature of budget being prepared for presentation to the 1945 legislature.

It was also announced here that the State Board of Education will hold a meeting in Marquette on July 14. Temporary Chairman Beckman, of the advisory committee, said it was hoped the committee will have its program outlined sufficiently for presentation to the state board when it meets here.

Members of the advisory committee are, in addition to Mayor Beckman: C. W. Allen, general manager, Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company, Ishpeming; K. W. Schulze, superintendent of schools, Crystal Falls; John Lemmer, Superintendent of schools, Escanaba; Orden Johnson, Superintendent

Thursday, June 15, with the second group slated for the following week. It is the second consecutive month in which the local board received two calls for army selectees.

It was indicated that the first group will include mainly single men under the age of 26, with only two pre-war fathers in this call. The second group, however, will be comprised mainly of pre-war fathers and will exhaust all of the available men in the army pool who received their pre-induction examination prior to this month.

Induction orders for the men in the second group will be mailed out today and probably will reach most of the registrants by Monday.

Only one navy call has been received thus far, that for Tuesday, June 13. It is not known whether a second call for the navy will be received this month, but two calls were received in May.

Michigan Tech Issues Bulletins

Marquette—A recent bulletin of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton, was viewed in the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau offices here with interest, heightened because of the Bureau's program of assistance to Upper Michigan's two state colleges, Michigan Tech and the Northern Michigan College of Education.

The bulletin is outstanding from a typographical standpoint, it was pointed out, while its editorial matter outlines clearly the relationship of the engineer and the present business and industrial world.

LAKE CRUISERS VISIT ESCANABA

Public Invited Aboard
To See Exhibits On Greater Detroit

More than 600 members of the Detroit Board of Commerce arrived in Escanaba yesterday afternoon aboard the S. S. Greater Detroit of the Cleveland Navigation company and spent several hilarious hours in the city before the huge liner pulled anchor last evening for Milwaukee on the second leg of a Lake Michigan cruise.

The Greater Detroit was scheduled to dock at 2:30 p. m. at the municipal dock, but arrived late. The ship tied up at the old merchant dock shortly after four p. m., greeted by a throng of local residents.

It was a great day particularly for the children. The cruisers tossed coins from the second deck of

ANOTHER TODAY

The S. S. South American of the Georgian Bay line will come to Escanaba today on a pre-season cruise from Cleveland and Detroit. The boat will tie up at the Escanaba municipal dock from 12:30 noon until 2 p. m. The S. S. North American, of the S. S. and Grand Rapids Shippers, will arrive here Tuesday.

the triple deck liner to the scrambling youngsters on the shore below. One of the more affluent members of the cruise handed out dollar bills to the youngsters like confetti.

After the big ship tied up at the dock and the cruisers debarked to stroll the streets of the city, it was open house aboard the liner for the townsfolk. A number of interesting exhibits by Detroit manufacturers were displayed and all attracted considerable interest.

A cutaway exhibit of a Pratt and Whitney, 13 cylinder, 2000 horsepower aviation engine, produced by one of the large motor companies of Detroit, was particularly awe inspiring. The engine was shown in slow motion operation, with all of its vital parts working.

Another exhibit that drew considerable interest presented advancements in the field of electronics. The use of high frequency radio waves for heat treatment of metal was shown in the exhibit. Another electronics device showed the use of electronics in ventilation.

Officers aboard the Greater Detroit reported that the ship did not tie up to the municipal dock because of the great length of the ship and because of a sunken bulk off the municipal dock, which it was feared would necessitate considerable maneuvering to get into the city dock.

More than 750 reservations were made for the cruise, it was reported, but the list was reduced to 600 because of a labor shortage. The passenger list included Prentiss Brown, former U. S. senator and former director of the Office of Price Administration, who now is employed by a Detroit utilities company; Manfred Burleigh, president of the Great Lakes Greyhound Company, Detroit.

SUMMER BAND CLASS PLANNED

Individual Lessons And Ensembles To Begin
Next Tuesday

Summer band instruction classes will begin Tuesday, June 13, with the aim of developing instrumentalists for the high school band next fall, Wayne Martin, band instructor, announces.

Although most of the prospective band students have already signed up for summer classes, other interested students are requested to be at the initial meeting on Tuesday.

Ensemble groups of advanced players will be scheduled. Individual half hour lessons twice weekly for intermediate players is planned with the aim of having such players advanced by the end of the summer session so as to take a place in the high school band.

"Summer is a good time for beginners to get started, when the band instructor can give the individual student the attention he may require," band master Martin said yesterday. "It is impossible during the busy days of the regular school term to give all needed individual instruction."

The high school band will rehearse Tuesday and Thursday at 7:15 p. m. in the high school auditorium. Regular lessons and ensemble practice will take place in the band room on the third floor of the north end of the Central school building.

We Have Failed

FIGURES compiled as a part of the national paper salvage campaign, reveal the interesting fact that more waste paper is available from farm homes than from the average city or village residence. These statistics have been compiled by the federal department of commerce, based on the actual weighing of waste paper in typical city and farm homes, so it cannot be charged that there is anything fanciful about them.

This survey reveals that on the average farm home there was uncollected on April 1 in the average farm home, 57.5 pounds of waste paper, while the average in city homes, of populations ranging from five to twenty-five thousand an average of 46.1 pounds.

This survey goes far enough to break down even the grades and quantities of waste paper that were available for salvage on April 1 in these typical homes. In the average home the waste paper available was divided as follows: farm homes, newspaper 12.4 pounds; magazine 34 pounds; brown craft 6.8 pounds; all other 4.3 pounds—city homes, newspaper 17.6 pounds; magazine 20.5 pounds; brown craft 5.2 pounds, and all other 2.8 pounds.

In the light of the desperate need for waste paper of every class these figures constitute damning evidence of the failure of this vitally necessary national effort to produce the results that could be accomplished if every home in every community, should make available all paper that could be salvaged for the war effort. No community in all the nation has, as yet, even approached the collection of waste paper in quantities that this survey reveals could and should be salvaged if our civilian effort was fully effective.

Most communities have established the machinery to achieve these results, but in neither farm nor city districts are the people cooperating in any measure approaching the national need.

Save that paper and get it to the salvage committee of your city or district.

Farley Resigns

RESIGNATION of James A. Farley as chairman of the New York state Democratic committee has been announced. The action is interpreted as a sign that the former postmaster general and head of the Democratic national committee feels it is quite certain President Roosevelt will run for a fourth term.

Farley has been opposed to the fourth term idea, and apparently believes it would be inconsistent for him to remain as chairman of the Democratic organization in New York state, in which position it would be his duty to direct the Roosevelt campaign. Not wanting to be a political hypocrite, he chose resignation as the way out of his dilemma.

The Republican party may derive some encouragement from Farley's action, but it would be unwise to expect that the former Democratic party leader will join their forces. Quite likely, he will remain silent in the campaign as far as Roosevelt's candidacy is concerned. Farley has been a party man too long to make a complete changeover in his politics. His decision reveals, however, that there is a sharp cleavage in Democratic party ranks with regard to Roosevelt's running for a fourth term.

Bad News for Hitler

SINCE the first news of the Allied invasion of Normandy came from the German radio one may place much credence in yesterday's reports from Berlin that the Russians have launched a large-scale offensive with armored forces in Romania.

The Nazis apparently are not reluctant to disclose the military developments that are really bad news for themselves. It is understood that it was decided at the Teheran conference that the Red armies would strike hard on the eastern front simultaneously with the invasion of the western coast of Europe. If the German reports are true, the Russians are preparing to fulfill their role in the grand strategy designed to conquer Hitler.

Stalin's armies made a remarkable comeback after the Nazi hordes had overrun a large portion of Russian territory. They are probably as powerful now as they have ever been, despite the heavy losses suffered at Stalingrad and in other crucial battles. Resumption of the Russian offensive, coordinated with the Allied invasion of France, can be regarded as another move that certainly will hasten the day of victory in Europe.

Postwar Railroads

THE Association of American Railroads has released an interesting report on the railroads of tomorrow. It is based on facts, not dreams. It says in part:

"The railroad of today is, and the railroad of tomorrow will be, essentially a machine for the mass production of transportation with minimum expenditure of labor and power, and with maximum efficiency.

"The track of the future will be made of better and tougher steel. It will have fewer joints . . . It will be safer track and . . . make possible higher speeds . . . it will enable a given unit of power to pull heavier trains.

"Cars will be made of lighter weight, high-tensile metals, not so much for the purpose of increasing the speed of trains as of decreasing dead weight . . . so that a given unit of power may perform a greater amount of transportation work. These cars will have improved draft gear . . . trucks . . . and . . . brakes to permit smoother handling.

"The locomotive power of the future will be varied, depending on needs in particular situations . . . There will be a greatly accelerated use of Diesel power in road passenger and freight service, and even more in switching. There may be steam-turbine or gas-turbine locomotives; . . . there may be locomotives using the power of atomic explosion, but for a long while to come the bulk of the service will be accomplished by steam engines. In horsepower per axle, per pound of fuel, and especially in performance ability at speeds above forty miles per hour, the steam engine has shown startling development."

"On the passenger side, the line of development will be enlargement of the air-conditioned, streamlined era which was well underway when interrupted by war. There will be new types of all-room Pullman cars so arranged that rooms may be sold at not much more than the present price of a lower berth. There will be other sleeping cars designed to sell space at prices well below the present rate. The forerunners of both types of cars are in existence now . . . In general, railroad passenger service will stress spaciousness, comfort and smartness rather than great increases in speed.

"All in all, the railroad of tomorrow will be a projection of the railroad of today, just as today's railroad is a projection of its predecessors. The history of the railroads, especially for the last fifty years, has been one of meeting mounting wages, prices and taxes, through greater capacity, greater dependability, greater efficiency and lower unit costs."

CIVILIAN PRODUCTION (Grand Rapids Press)

In the last several months the government's policy on production of essential civilian goods has fluctuated so constantly that no one in industry or elsewhere was certain as to what the policy was at any given time. The confusion developed last December after the war production board authorized the manufacture in 1944 of 2,000,000 electric irons and indicated that this order was the beginning of a resumption of civilian production on a broader scale.

Hopes generated by this WPB action soon were crushed, however, when the army persuaded WPB that there should be no general expansion of the output of civilian goods until the success of the invasion of Europe was certain. As a result WPB last month froze the output of civilian goods in 183 areas to the level of the first quarter of the year, and even raised doubts as to whether its promise of 2,000,000 electric irons would be fulfilled by excluding from the electric iron program all but nine of the thirty appliance manufacturers who had planned to participate.

New WPB is veering away from the army's extreme position. Vice Chairman Charles E. Wilson announcing that WPB has decided to follow a compromise formula for increasing civilian production without interfering with the needs of the army. Under this formula, as outlined by Wilson, manpower and materials freed by cutbacks and not needed in nearby plants will be channeled into civilian production. This program also has the enthusiastic support of Wendell Elliott, recently appointed vice chairman of the office of civilian requirements, a post that had been left vacant for three months after Arthur Whiteside's resignation.

At this particular juncture of the war no one would even suggest that civilian production be resumed in either direct or indirect competition with military production, but it is obvious that there are communities where civilian production can be encouraged to the benefit of the entire home front and without the slightest detriment to the war production effort.

It is this procedure which WPB apparently intends to follow. If it continues to cling to this sound position the whole nation will have cause to be grateful.

TAVERN KEEPERS' PLEDGE (Marquette Eagle-Star)

Outagamie county will be much the better for it and tavern keepers will have little or no trouble if they live up to the pledge contained in a large advertisement they recently published. They pledged observance of these principles:

Not to knowingly serve alcoholic beverages to any one under legal age.

To abide strictly by legal closing and opening hours.

To spread the principle and practice of moderation.

To maintain a clean, orderly place of business.

To meet with civil and military authorities at any time to achieve these ends. Pointing out that every business man in the county has an ethical standard for his business, the Outagamie County Tavern League said in their advertisement that "we, as tavern keepers, also have a set of business principles by which we guide ourselves. The purpose of the principles is a simple one, but very important—to protect the welfare of our fellow citizens, old or young."

In making this pledge, the Outagamie tavern keepers have placed themselves on

World War In The Air

BY MAJOR A. P. de SEVERSKY

This dispatch is being written just as the great invasion of Western Europe has gotten under way. Events will move with such dramatic rapidity that the start of the invasion will sound like stale news by the time these words are in print. Opinions and conclusions may be made obsolete not merely in a few days but in a few hours.

Nevertheless, the basic principles of warfare never change. Given certain conditions, that is to say, certain predictable results are to be expected. It is only in reference to such underlying principles that we may venture to analyze any aspect of the epoch-making operations in the heat of this moment.

The central doctrine of war-making in the era of air power is that the side which controls the skies over any theatre of action controls the surface below, whether that surface be land or water. For more than six months now Anglo-American air power has been concentrated on the job of acquiring such control. We have sought to annihilate the German fighter force in order to insure undisputed control of the air on the day of invasion.

The immediate indications are that this purpose has been achieved. The first communications and eye-witness accounts attest to the virtual absence of the enemy's defensive aviation over the Channel. According to these early accounts, thousands of our ships, carrying men, machines and supplies, are crossing over to the French side under an aerial roof of some 11,000 airplanes.

This figure is formidable and one that should hearten all of us in this hour of trial. In the evacuation of Dunkirk the British succeeded in transporting about 300,000 men under the cover of only a few hundred airplanes. The Germans on a later occasion succeeded in bringing three battleships—the Gneisenau, Scharnhorst and Prinz Eugen—safely through the Straits of Dover in the face of strong British attack because they were able to provide a cover of 700 airplanes. Theoretically, therefore, we have every reason to expect that the gigantic protection of 11,000 planes will give us freedom of operation in the Channel.

—QUESTION OF AIR POWER—

Personally I feel that the whole problem, and the whole fate of the invasion, can be reduced to the one question: Do the Germans have enough air power left to challenge our possession of the skies over the Channel or to threaten the entire effort at the point of origin, the embarkation ports in England itself?

If the enemy commands enough fighter-bomber aviation to break through our aerial shield, he will seek to destroy the expeditionary forces in transit. If he commands enough bombing power, he will attempt to interfere with the invasion by attacking the millions of men, thousands of ships and mountains of supplies gathered at ports of embarkation. He will aim to sever our lines of communication with the invading forces after they have landed, and cut them off from reinforcements and supplies.

Should it appear that Hitler does not possess adequate air power for such counter-moves, then Germany is through and must, sooner or later, sue for peace. A few weeks ago, in discussing the progress of the aerial Battle of Germany, I wrote: "Personally, I should not be astonished if, between now and winter, long before soldiers set foot inside Germany's frontiers, a German airplane painted white were to land at Croydon airdrome with a request for an armistice. A successful invasion would in itself attest our victory in the Battle of Germany, since command of the skies is the irreducible first condition for successful invasion."

I repeat these words now that the invasion is off to a brilliant start. Without effective air power to counterpose to Allied air power, Germany cannot hope to win on the ground. If the Second World War has demonstrated any one thing beyond doubt, it is the uselessness of static fortified positions. Maginot Line has become a synonym for futility. Those who make a great to-do about the West Wall and other Hitlerite surface fortifications have forgotten the lessons of Singapore and Corregidor and the Maginot Line itself.

—STATIC DEFENSE VULNERABLE—

No static fortifications have been able to withstand concentrated aerial bombardment or the combined fire power of aircraft and warships once the domination of the skies above has been established. The Germans and the Japanese demonstrated this over and over again and in the past year we have ourselves been making the demonstration by overcoming Japanese fortified islands in the Pacific where the enemy could not match us in the air. Besides, static fortifications can be flanked, isolated and left behind.

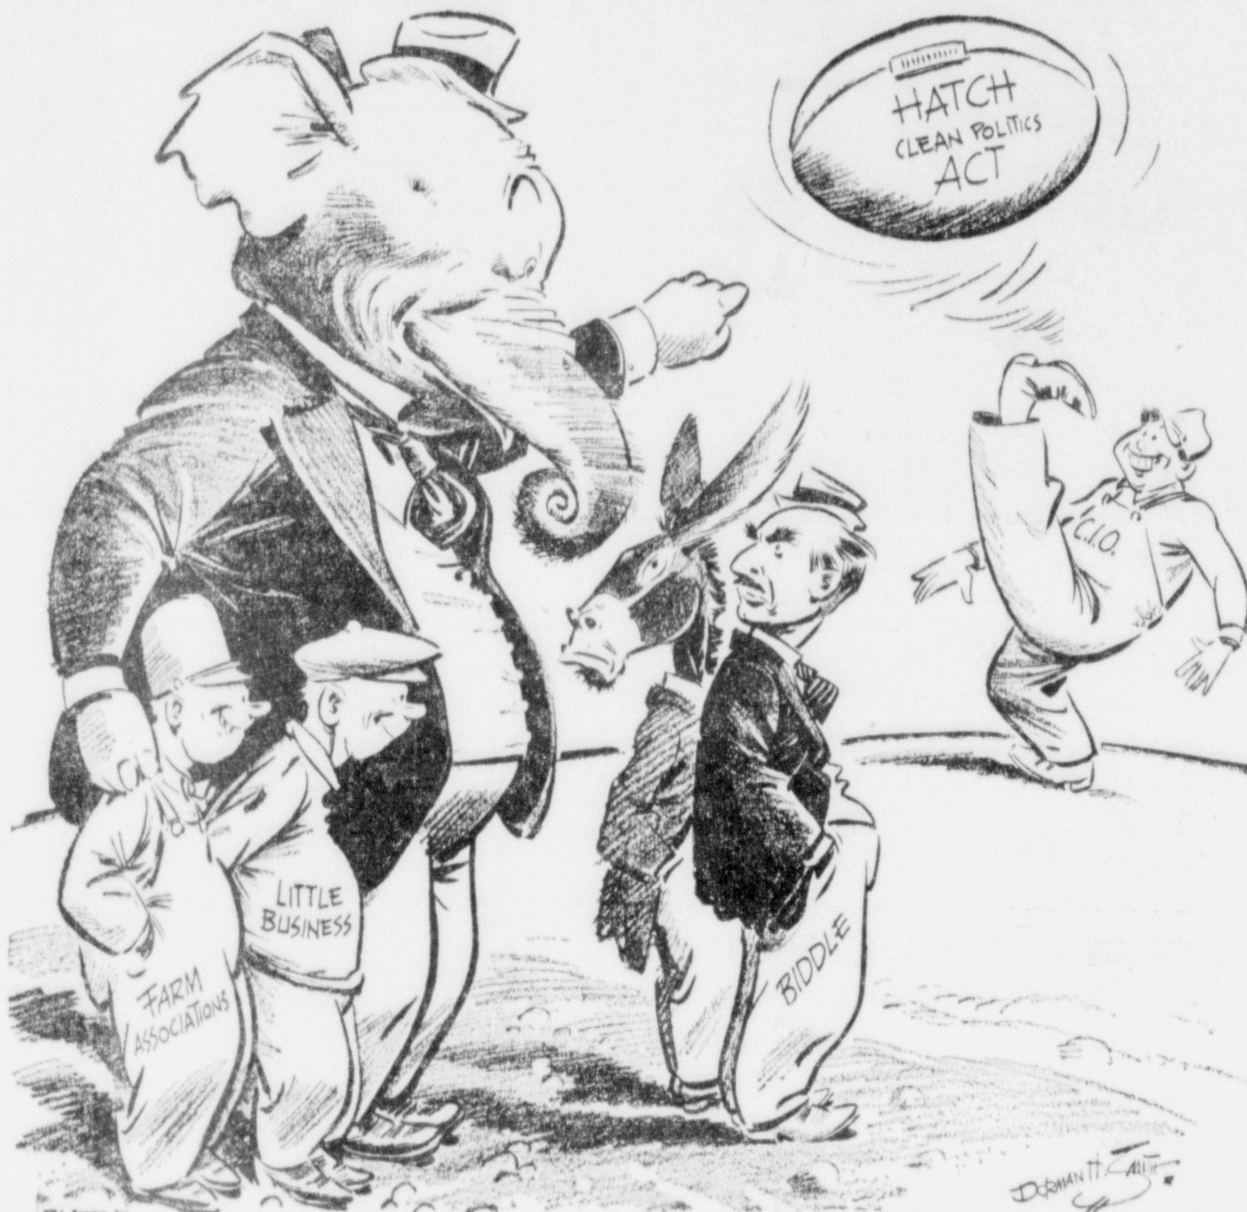

Neither German hopes based on ground obstacles nor Allied fears on this score have any justification in fact. They are, indeed, largely psychological hangovers from a past military epoch. The decision must be made—perhaps has already been made—in the skies.

In the light of air power reality, I therefore stick to what I have repeatedly emphasized in these dispatches: Unless Hitler has enough air power left to inflict a decisive damage on our expeditionary forces in transit and at embarkation points, or to strand our forces in an early stage of the proceedings by severing supply lines, his speedy defeat is in the cards.

Onion sets may slow down due to the heat but they always come back strong.

the spot, so to speak. If the pledge is sincere, they will severely censure any member who violates it.

"Can My Boys Get in This Game?"

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

SCHOOL'S OUT!—The school year is ended for another vacation season and several thousand city and county boys and girls are almost as happy as their teachers.

For three months or so the teachers will try and regain control of their nerves—while the children gradually wear their parents' nerves down to a ragged edge. Not that children are nerve-racking. Oh no! It's just that they are children.

Dunathan have apparently boundless energy, and are forever learning, in school or out.

The summer vacation time, for the kids, will be an opportunity to learn that unless you know how to swim you will sink and—eventually—drown. They will learn that tar bubbling from between the concrete joints in the pavement is a fascinating plaything, and can be used as a shampoo, or put new soles on worn shoes, or to decorate the seats of their pants.

They will learn how to weed the garden by pulling up all the sprouting radishes. They learn to tend the garden by walking through the bean patch in wet weather, eating all the tomatoes as soon as they show a trace of pink, and digging for fish worms in the petunias.

THE GRADUATES—The graduates of our high schools will, in all seriousness, face one of the most trying times in the nation's history. Most of the boys (if they are not already in service) will be drafted into the armed forces. The girls, in the majority, will pretty much stay at home. A few will take war jobs—and still fewer will go on to college.

For the graduates, starchy-eyed after commencement, there will be the necessary readjustment to life as it is—a gradual realization that parents were pretty good folks after all, and home wasn't the prison they once considered it.

Once meeting the world face to face—working, drilling, paying board, eating food that mother didn't cook, feeling lonely—they will reach an emotional maturity. Considered altogether, these young men and women have shown through the war years a most amazing equilibrium. They have not permitted the sometimes alarm, sometimes apathy of their parents to warp their outlook on life. With the optimism of youth they looked upon the world and found it good—whether it meant a fox-hole future or a lonely job in an industrial plant, far from family and friends.

Give the youth of today credit for its good qualities—courage to face a future made difficult by the mistakes of its elders.

WANT TO HELP—Yeah, you may say, but you're not writing about the kids in my neighborhood—they're hellions.

Brother, we're writing about all the kids in all the neighborhoods, your own included.

The Bugler got a new slant on Escanaba kids the other day. Up at the court house "Pip" Wenner the county agricultural agent was meeting with more than 100 boys and girls who are volunteering for bean picking work this summer in the county as members of the Victory Farm Volunteers.

Some of the kids from your neighborhood were there too—those same kids whose antics nearly drive you nuts.

There would have been more there if there had been need for more but the county agent thinks about 100 or so will be able to take up the labor slack in the bean fields of the county this coming August. Kids want to help. All you have to do is give them a chance—and be able to bear up under the strain of seeing it done in several original ways that would never occur to an adult.

Those bean pickers incidentally

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1934

Peter R. Legg yesterday filed nomination petitions for his candidacy for reelection as Delta county representative in the state legislature. He is now completing his first term.

Miss LaVerne Newman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Newman, left Detroit for New York from where she will sail on an ocean cruise to South America.

The Escanaba office of the conservation department reports that Willard Schwartz has been appointed conservation officer, and Herman Lelsner is to be chief of the commercial fishing patrol in Delta and Menominee counties.

20 Years Ago—1924

William Finnegan, veteran railway engineer for the North Western railroad, has returned from a 10 weeks' visit in Oregon and other West Coast states, where he visited relatives.

The Trades & Labor Council of Saint Ignace, Marie has endorsed the candidacy of Dr. W. A. Lemire of Escanaba for the Republican congressional nomination.

Gladstone—Percy Cameron has been named chairman of the annual alumni dance of the local high school, which will be held June 20. The appointment was made by Alumni President Glenn W. Jackson.

25 Years Ago—1919

Earl V. Essington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Essington, Wells has been discharged from service. He has been in the army medical corps and stationed at Jefferson barracks.

"Jitney dances," a new entertainment feature in Escanaba, will be started in Escanaba soon at the Coliseum, it is announced by Manager Richard Plath.

C. D. Gay arrived home from Camp Mitchell yesterday after having mastered out of the army. He arrived in New York City May 28 after serving overseas.

The Nahma ball club is now without a pitcher and may not play Sunday unless Pitcher Edwin Truckey returns. Truckey left without warning, apparently to pitch for some other city.

will have a team captain who will be contacted to call out his workers—and all of the kids after they get put in their first day will get a red, white and blue shoulder insignia as members of the nation's Victory Farm Volunteers.

FOR OLDER YOUTH—There are plenty of all-summer farm-hand jobs in the county for older boys and girls who may want to take such jobs. Unfortunately there are few takers for such jobs, probably because most young people who have no farm experience don't yet know what a summer on the farm can mean to them.

Not only would the older boys and girls learn much that would benefit them, they would be making a direct contribution to the war effort. Our nation's farmers are in a large measure looked to for the food that will win us victory and the peace to follow.

The lure of the city and an industrial job is strong. Many young women and a few men cannot answer this call, for one reason or another. Better then that they turn to aid the local farmer than sit through a summer vacation period in idleness, while millions of our young men field and die on battlefields around the world.

FOR PARENTS—The 1944 summer vacation time should mean, for parents, an opportunity to do all of those things with their children they have promised themselves they would do in past years—and never got around to. Mother could teach little sister to sew, to aid with the housework; father could get his son's cooperation in tending lawn and garden, washing the car, fixing those loose steps in the back porch. Family cooperation pays dividends in happiness and good citizenship. Summer vacation is the time for these "coucous."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—Now that the greatest invasion in the history of modern warfare has started, some of the inside story regarding this, the most controversial question that has confronted the Allies, can be reviewed.

It is no secret that the second front has been the sorest subject of debate between the British and Russians and, at times, even between U. S. and British and Russians and, at times, even between U. S. and British military leaders, since the war began.

At one time, when the Russians were hard-pressed and fighting for their lives at Stalingrad and in the winter of 1942-1943, it was feared by some U. S. military observer that Stalin might even withdraw from the war because of bitterness over the fact that the second front was not started.

The controversial question first arose in the early summer of 1942, a few months after Pearl Harbor, when Foreign Minister Molotov came to London, then to Washington, for important political-military conferences. Although Poland and the Baltic States were on his list of subjects to be discussed, at the very top of the list was the second front.

At that time, the American Army was relatively small and not too well prepared. Molotov's thesis was that we should persuade our British allies, with a million-man army in England, to hit Germany from the West. President Roosevelt had to say that we could not high-pressure an ally.

However, General Marshall did work out a plan for a landing across the Channel in the fall of 1942. His plan was based on the fact that the Nazis had thrown the cream of their entire army into Russia and had their lines extended as far as Stalingrad, leaving France and Western Europe relatively undefended.

Marshall proposed this instead of the North Africa landing of November, 1942. However, Churchill was not willing to take the chance and held out for his plan to strike through the "soft underbelly of the Axis," namely North Africa and the Mediterranean.

—COMPROMISE AT CASABLANCA—
The Russians were disappointed; but even more so after Casablanca. There U. S. military and naval leaders were definitely ready to discuss the second front. But Churchill laid down the thesis that in any cross-channel operation, the ratio of troops would have to be about 70 percent American to 30 percent British.

From the British viewpoint, he made a plausible argument for this, pointing out that Britain had lost her "seed" when she poured the cream of her manhood into Flanders Fields in 1914. This, he said, had set England back perhaps a generation, and she could not afford to lose her "seed" again. He also pointed out that England's population was less than one-third that of the U. S. A.

However, at the rate of submarine sinkings at that time, it was impossible to ship American troops across the Atlantic in enough numbers to make up 70 percent of an invasion army.

Churchill at that time wanted to invade the Balkans. General Marshall favored a second front in Western Europe. So, instead, they compromised on Italy which, except for Sicily and the extreme south, nobody really wanted to invade.

Once again, the Russians were desperately disappointed, and rumors came out of Moscow—perhaps inspired in order to influence us—that Russia might withdraw from the war.

—NO DECISION AT QUEBEC—
Highly expectant communiques were issued after each conference, so that the world got the impression that the second front was imminent. However, judging by their military movements, the Germans were not much concerned over these communiques, and probably knew that, even after the Quebec conference in the summer of 1943, Churchill and Roosevelt still were not able to agree on the second front.

At Quebec, the United States still had not had time to ship sufficient troops overseas to supply a 70-30 ratio, and Churchill, never enthusiastic about a cross-channel operation no matter what the ratio, still wanted to penetrate the Balkans.

It had been hoped that Stalin would join Churchill and Roosevelt at Quebec or some place in Northern Canada. But he turned the invitation down. And once again, there was no decision on the second front. U. S. naval leaders, by this time, demanded and secured an agreement whereby we would go ahead faster in the Pacific.

—TEHRAN CONFERENCE—
Next came the Teheran Conference. Only then was an agreement reached that the British and American forces should attack Germany across the Channel while Russia hit her from the East.

The agreement did not come too easily, however, even at Teheran. Churchill first proposed his old hunting-ground, the Balkans; then a Southern European operation; then an all-out and continued air-pounding of Germany which he thought would bring Hitler to his knees. Stalin, however, turned thumbs down on all three unless accompanied by a cross-channel operation.

Finally, an agreement was signed that the invasion should start no later than a certain week. Stalin gave certain promises in return, most of which cannot yet be reviewed.

Later when Churchill recovered from his illness, he made certain proposals for modifying the second front plan, confiding to friends that he had not been well at Teheran. However, except for a possible slight delay, there never was any important modification of the basic Teheran plan.

EXPECT BEACH OPENING TODAY

Summer Schedule For Life Guards Is Announced

Weather permitting, Ludington Park beach will open on the regular summer schedule today, the department of recreation said last night.

Until further notice, regular hours will be from 10:00 to 12:00, 1:30 to 5:00 and 6:00 to 8:30 except Sunday mornings when it will be closed.

During hours the beach is not scheduled to be open, no guards will be on duty at the beach and parents are asked to forbid their children to swim during those times. In past years, guards have attempted to schedule lunch hours in order to have some one on duty at all times but this has made working conditions at the beach so strenuous that it is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain guards for the Escanaba site when most other beaches offer more pay for fewer hours.

Escanaba is fortunate this year in having a staff of well qualified guards. Virginia LaChance, who holds an instructor's certificate in beach director, Miss LaChance during the past week has been in Marquette giving instructions to the staff there.

She will be assisted this summer by Bill Vacon, senior life saver who will be employed on a full time basis, and by Helen LaChance who will be the third member of the staff during hours when participation makes it advisable to place guards at three points.

During periods when an appreciable number of swimmers are in the water, guards are assigned one to watch small children in the roped off shallow water area, another to circulate in the safe swimming area, and the third is stationed in the deep water area around the raft.

Reports from other cities indicate that many of them are having difficulty securing a staff of guards.

Nazis Hate Americans, Consider Them Softies

BY LARRY ALLEN
(Just Repatriated from a German Prison Camp)

New York, June 8 (P)—Intense, all-consuming, day and night hatred of the American people is the order of the day in Nazi Germany. Her press and radio pound it into the war-torn brains of the German people constantly.

Leading the campaign is Robert Ley, chief spokesman for Hitler.

Ley's job as chief of the labor front is to keep every able hand working for the war machine. But he travels over all Germany with his cry of hate and blazons it daily in the Berlin newspaper, "der Angriff."

Raps American Culture

This is typical. "Hate! Hate! Hate! Every German must hate the gangsters, the murderers, the assassins who come from the center of world Jewry and capitalism—the United States of America."

"Its Luftgangsters murder your women and children, they destroy your homes."

"In this war, there can be no compromise with these half-breed Americans who come across the sea to slay in a war that does not concern them."

Runner-up is Reichminister Alfred Rosenberg, who travels from the Baltic countries to Romania.

Recently, before a capacity audience in Prague, he said:

"There is more culture in the poorest home of a German peasant than in all of the United States."

"Americans are the bloodiest sneer on culture and freedom the world has ever known."

"They erect great skyscrapers of steel and concrete; they live on sex, and propagate a cross-section of the world's worst examples of humanity."

The average German thinks Americans are "soft" because they feed ice cream cones and good food to Nazi prisoners of war.

German prisoners released from the United States frequently told me that Americans regard Germans as "supermen" and treat them as guests.

"A Hollywood Film"

"You," a German prison camp official told me, "are a prisoner of war. You are subject to the most rigid German military control. This isn't Hollywood—you eat what we give you or go without anything. Germany produces soldiers. Here everyone works."

In America, everyone plays and hopes the war will go on for a long time so everyone will make more money.

"To us, this war is life or death. 'To you Americans, it is just another episode in a Hollywood film. And, of course, as long as your prison camp officials treat Germans like guests, they accept it, but secretly they think you Americans are soft and foolish.'"

In Innsbruck a German captain dragged me out of a cattle car in which I had ridden for 48 hours with only a slice of black bread and a ring of German wire mesh to eat.

"Why did you come over here to fight?", he stormed. "Why don't you Americans live up to your Monroe Doctrine of America for Americans and stay out of Europe?"

Three voting polls in school election

The voting polls for the annual Escanaba board of education election Monday, June 12, will be located at the fire station, South First avenue, the Jefferson school and the fire station at North Escanaba, Supt. John A. Lemmer has announced.

Two trustees will be elected. There are only two nominees, Dr. L. P. Groos and C. Gust Peterson, Dr. A. J. Carlton, an incumbent, is not a candidate for reelection.

"Bonfire," or literally "fire of bones," was the origin of our "bonfire," and was applied to a funeral pyre.

Grand Marais.—A 20 1-2 inch tagged lake trout taken recently in Lake Superior by James McDonald of Grand Marais was one of 700 hatchery-reared lake trout released in Munising Bay on May 12, 1941, according to records of the conservation department's institute for fisheries research. At time of tagging, the fish was 10 3-4 inches long and weighed about four pounds. It had traveled about 75 miles in a northeasterly direction since its release three years ago.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C-266: Lawrence B. M. aged 35, is a department store manager.

"My biggest problem as an employer consists of how to administer criticism," he admitted to me at a luncheon we were attending.

"Even when I try to be reasonably tactful and even when the correction is vitally necessary, the victim of my criticism always seems more or less resentful. "New employees often require instruction. When they make a mistake, it is essential that they be corrected."

"Such criticism is helpful to them, for it teaches them how to avoid repetition of faults that would ultimately lead to loss of a job. But how can a man criticize his wife or employees without engendering hostility and resentment?"

DIAGNOSIS

The best technique to use in this delicate situation is the "sandwich method."

Sandwich your correction or reprimand between two honest compliments. The first layer of the sandwich must be a sincere bit of praise.

Such demands some self-control and careful personality analysis on the part of the critic so he can pick out a legitimate virtue of his employee.

Too often our correction or criticism is blurted out on the spur of the moment and in an angry tone of voice. That is especially true in our dealing with members of our family, especially our children.

A good teacher or employer should have unusual self-control. He should resist the natural human tendency to grow emotional and become embroiled in an angry verbal exchange.

How to Criticize Safely
Criticisms tends to deflate our ego or vanity. It is human nature to resent ego deflation.

The strategy in the sandwich method, therefore, consists of bolstering up the ego of the person being criticized so that the deflation of the meaty layer of the sandwich will be offset by the twin compliments.

Thus, by starting off with an honest compliment, we enhance the vanity of the victim.

Then we hand him the meaty layer of the sandwich which consists of our criticism. But we try to make it an intellectual rather than an emotional matter, and may slip into it gracefully by the "I wonder" route.

Because the victim receives some inflation of his pride, we finish the sandwich with another honest compliment, which should bring his ego back to normal if not even above par.

Thus we have put across the new idea or correction, while retaining his friendship and goodwill.

Sandwich Method, Plus a Smile
Suppose a wife feels her husband is using too much slang or profanity around their children, and wishes to correct him.

"John, you are so wonderful in the way you devote time to playing with the children. They can hardly wait till you get home at night."

"I wonder, though, if it wouldn't be better to be more careful in your speech around them, for they are young and impressionable."

"You know, darling, how they try to imitate you in every way, for whatever you do is perfect in their eyes," and the wife smiles adoringly at him.

Be sure to smile when you employ the sandwich method, for the smile helps keep the situation on a friendly plane!

On D-Day

We cannot forget Tuesday, June 6, 1944. The memorial day when our airborne troops invaded continental France. Our sons, brothers, sweethearts, and the boy next door who have liberation of Europe, must be remembered, must be backed to the very fullest extent. Our boys are fighting for their lives, for their right to live as free men. The Four Freedoms, which we all hold so dear are at stake, today, NOW! So it's up to us to act. It's for us to buy BONDS, and BONDS, above all else. It's for us to back our boys!

111 Cedar StreetPLAN FESTIVAL
HERE FOURTHPlans To Be Mapped For Roele And Water
Festival

An amateur roe and water festival will be staged here on the Fourth of July week-end, it was decided at a meeting of the city recreation board Thursday night at the city hall.

A committee composed of Douglas Mathison, Cliff Frasher and Clarence Goodman was named to outline a program for the event, trials or eliminations will be run off on Sunday and the finals would be held on Tuesday, July 4.

The amateur roe would be for junior birlers and probably would be classed as an Upper Peninsula championship event for it is believed that the present national junior champion, Mark Olson of Marquette, will be on hand for the event.

Billy Girard has offered to coach local youngsters in the art so that they may get in trim for the event.

A program of water events including swimming and diving has also been suggested.

There is a possibility of having a birling exhibition by some nationally known star.

Bark River Plays
Return Game Here
Sunday, 2:30 P. M.

The Bark River village team will come to Gladstone Sunday afternoon to play a return game with the Gladstone team. The tilt is to be played on the diamond across from the police post and is to start at 2:30 o'clock.

In the initial game the teams were deadlocked at 11-11 at the end of 10 innings when rain forced a halt to play.

Work is now being carried out on both the baseball diamond in the park and on the softball diamond on the commons, the site of the old ball diamond.

Infields are being surfaced and rolled and the grass is being cut short in the outfields.

At the playground work on the ball field was being carried out with volunteer labor yesterday afternoon and last night and will continue today.

Horseshoe courts at the playground just west of the south tennis court are being reconstructed and are expected to be ready for the tossers by Sunday.

UTILITY RATES
ARE UNCHANGEDPenalty Will Be Imposed
On Bills Not Paid
Currently

Utility rates were set for the current fiscal year at a meeting of the city commission this week. Rates remain unchanged for both electricity and water.

However, the commission adopted a 10 per cent penalty charge which will apply to both electric and water accounts which are not currently paid.

The 10 per cent penalty will be charged on all light bills not paid by the 25th of the month in which they were issued.

On water accounts the penalty will be invoked if the bill is not paid by the last day of the first month in the quarter for which the bill is issued.

In cases where accounts are in arrears the penalty will not be charged on current bills if arrangements are made with Acting City Manager H. J. Hendrickson and carried out to reduce the delinquent account periodically.

VETERANS' AID
COUNCIL BEGUNFifteen Organizations
Represented At First Meeting Thursday

Organization of "a model Council of Veterans' Affairs" got underway here Thursday night when 35 people representing 15 organizations met in the county court house.

The group elected Fred Hahne temporary chairman and instructed him to appoint a five man steering committee to formulate plans for another meeting in the near future. Officers and committees will be selected at the next meeting, it was planned.

Meanwhile all representatives present at the initial meeting plan to give the matter of a veterans' council considerable thought. Every organization in the city, numbering about 25, is to have a representative present at the meeting.

It is expected that the framework of the Council of Veterans' Affairs will be built at the next meeting. Included in this organization is the executive committee which will be made up of a chairman, vice chairman, secretary-treasurer, and seven committee heads: employment, rights and benefits, physical and mental health, education and vocational training, personal and social problems, organization and finance and publicity. A council will be responsible to the executive committee, and will have personal contact with all returning veterans requiring aid of any kind.

It was pointed out Thursday night that the Council of Veterans' Affairs is set up through state legislation to aid servicemen who are mustered out of service. Because of the fact that the legislation was written by J. Joseph Herbert of this city, it is hoped that the Manistique organization will be a model one, Mr. Hahne said. Considerable assistance will be given the local council through the state organization and a number of federal agencies.

TIGHT CUB TILT IS DEADLOCKED

Games With Bucs Called Off In 11th By Rain, Score 3 And 3

Pittsburgh, June 9 (AP)—With the score tied at 3-3, the Pittsburgh-Chicago National league game was called in the eleventh inning tonight on account of rain.

Fritz Ostermueller, making his first home appearance for Pittsburgh, and Claude Passeau, Cubs' right-hander, engaged in a pitching duel up to the eighth when Bill Nicholson's smash hit a pole in right field and was ruled a home run, giving Chicago a 3-1 lead.

The Pirates came back in the same inning to tie the score, pinch-hitter Frank Colman's triple scoring Bob Elliott and Jim Russell who had singled.

The tie game will be played off tomorrow (Saturday), an open date.

BRAVES NOSED 3-2

Brooklyn, June 9 (AP)—Mickey Owen's third single of the night with two out in the ninth drove home Dixie Walker, who had doubled, for Brooklyn's 3-2 edge over the Boston Braves to-night before 19,182 cash customers.

Calvin McLish, 18-year-old Oklahoma City schoolboy, checked Bob Coleman's Braves with five hits as he hung up his second big league win against three defeats.

Ben Cardoni who took over in the eighth after Nate Andrews had bowed out for a pinch-hitter suffered his second straight setback.

Boston struck first when Connie Ryan doubled and romped across on Max Macon's single in the first frame but the Brooks tied in the sixth when Walker and Luis Olmo singled and Owen rapped one to score Walker.

Frenchy Bordagaray tripled in the seventh and came in with the tie-breaking run when Ryan muffed up Ed Stanky's grounder but the Braves made it 2-2 in the eighth on Buck Eichenlaub's pinch double, a walk, sacrifice and an infield out.

Walker started the Dodgers on the road to victory with his two-base hit off the scoreboard in the ninth and Owen broke it up with a single into left that Butch Nie-man got a glove on but couldn't hold.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The reclassification of Danny Litwhiler of the Cardinals to 2-A by his Philadelphia draft board is in line with Selective Service advice to local boards to "seek a reason for deferring registrants beyond the age of 25." The class 2-A originally was designed to include only those registrants who were vitally important to necessary civilian activity, but when the pressure was removed from the men 26 and over this category was widely expanded and local boards were advised to liberally interpret the regulation.

Litwhiler is the second big leaguer to receive a 2-A classification but the first to be so classified after having passed pre-induction examination. Oscar Grimes of the Yankees was the first 2-A man in big league baseball, the classification coming before he was called for examination. With these precedents established it is likely that an increasing number of ball players will get occupational deferments. It is to be hoped that the various draft boards are consistent in their actions, but present indications are otherwise.

Not all of the men bidding for individual honors in the NCAA meet at Milwaukee today are from major colleges and universities.

SEA GULL RACE TO BE SUNDAY

Five Craft Entered In Elimination Event For Asp Trophy

The first of the annual Sea Gull elimination races for the Gust Asp trophy will take place Sunday, June 11 at 2:30 p. m.

All five of the local contestants have been tuning up for this event and as most entries are owned and skippered by experienced sailors it is almost a foregone conclusion that another of those thrilling split second finishes will result.

The start of the race will be at the new city dock and the course will be from there to the red can buoy, then to the Escanaba light keeping bouys to starboard; second leg, to Escanaba light, to red can buoy, keeling bouys to port.

Commodore Francis Boyce will fire the starting gun from the east end of the city dock and the usual warning flags will be used. Commodore Boyce will be assisted by Fred Kibby.

One of the small college contenders is Harold Fischer of Miami, Fla. university, hurdler, who may give the big college stars some interesting competition. Another is Joe Shropshire, of Fresno State Teachers College, an outstanding quarter and half miler. As usual, however, the major university stars will dominate the show.

Wisconsin's split deer season of 1943 has been officially declared a bust. Hearings held throughout the state revealed conclusively that hunters were disgusted with the split season and do not want it repeated. The heavy majority of hunters want a buck season, but disagree on the type of season. Controlled area hunting, proposed by the state conservation department, was rejected by 45 counties, accepted only by three. It is predicted that the use of buckshot in deer hunting will be barred next fall in Wisconsin. The sale of tags probably will be prohibited after the first day of the season.

Hit and Miss—Ensign William Schatzer, who played halfback for the Iowa Seahawks in 1942, is missing in action in the South Pacific. The Wolverines are mourning the loss of Eloy Hirsch, being transferred to Paris Island, in a fair trade. Michigan got Hirsch because of the war—he's a Marine trainee—and they are losing him for the same reason. The west coast boom for professional football is gathering momentum.

Betting on Nags Has Odd Angles, Martin Decides

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, June 8 (AP)—There has been considerable comment, mostly condemnatory, on the fact that more than $10,000,000 was wagered at horse races Memorial Day, the idea being that such a sum is a sad commentary on the American scene, although in theory there would seem to be no difference between 10 people betting $500,000,000 and 50,000,000 people betting $10.

That is, if gambling is wrong a dime can be just as wrong as a million dollars. The amount involved makes no difference, except that large-scale betting is more liable to escape punishment than penny-ante betting, the same as a fellow is liable to go to jail for stealing a loaf of bread and be turned loose on parole if he steals a million bucks.

Pastor Is Bewildered

One of the theories advanced for the national-budget betting figure Memorial Day is that it is due to the impulse to "live a long time in a single moment," although that probably isn't the general idea. We think the real reason is that ever-present urge to try to get something for nothing. In this case it would mean outsmarting the horses, although that never can be done as long as the horses don't bet on people. Which, probably, is what they mean by horse sense.

A pastor is bewildered by the fact you can't raise $25,000 for repairs on a church, yet people have $10,000,000 to bet on horse races. The inference there is that the people betting the $10,000,000 don't go to church. Maybe if they allowed them to make book on the workmen as to which would complete his job first and took a cut in the total wage as the state does in horse track betting they could raise the money in a jiffy.

The whole thing simmers down to the idea that a man's money is his to do with as he pleases, and if he wants to buy hay with it and doesn't want to contribute to something generally regarded as worth while that's his business, whether you like it or not. When you start to tell a man how to spend his money you're treading on dangerous ground.

Getting back to the $10,000,000 wagered Memorial Day. Who makes it possible to bet like that? Why, the legislators, of course. If it were wrong and the citizens don't want such a situation, it's up to them to elect lawmakers who think the same as they do. The current lawmakers in states where they have pari-mutuel betting think such gambling is okay, and those lawmakers represent the people.

Well, we didn't put any of that $10,000,000 through the meat grinder, so it's no skin off our nose. It's interesting to note the reaction to such astronomical betting, however. The tracks are operating within the law and the people are blowing their own money there, so there doesn't seem much that can be done about it without either outlawing the betting or seeing that the people don't have any money of their own. The tracks are doing the best they can to take care of that latter situation.

Their scoring featured by two homers by Johnson, the Buckeye locals of Gladstone defeated Wells in a baseball game at Wells last night, 23 to 0.

LOOP LEADERS SET DOWN, 4-2

Indians Make It Two Straight Over St. Louis

St. Louis, June 9 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians made it two straight over the league-leading St. Louis Browns tonight by winning 4 to 2. Cleveland scored first in the second. Geoffrey Heath singled, Oris Hockett walked and after Ken Keltner sacrificed, Russ Peters was purposely passed, filling the bases. Jim McDonnell forced Peters, Heath scoring. Hockett was out at the plate on an attempted double steal.

The Browns moved into the lead in the third. After Don Guttridge lined to Roy Cullenbine, Mike Kreevich, George McQuinn and Verne Stephens walked. Gene Moore popped out but Milt Byrnes singled, scoring Kreevich and McQuinn. Mark Christman grounded to Peters.

The Indians swept back into the lead in the seventh. Hockett and Keltner singled and Peters sacrificed. McDonnell was purposely passed, loading the bases. Paul O'Deah atted for Allie Reynolds but struck out. Boudreau singled over Guttridge's head, scoring Hockett and Keltner. Cullenbine fled out.

The Browns failed to cash in on numerous scoring chances, aided by nine bases on balls off Reynolds. Cleveland — 010 000 300—4 8 1
St. Louis — 002 000 000—2 6 0

Louis Can't Hold Title—Dempsey

Camden, N. J., June 9 (AP)—Cmdr. Jack Dempsey says the chances are 100 to 1 against Sgt. Joe Louis retaining the heavy-weight boxing title "for more than a couple of bouts" after the war. Military training isn't conducive to maintaining "boxing trim," Dempsey said while here on a bond-selling tour.

WOLVES EYEING BIG TEN TITLE

Michigan Needs Victory Against Purdue Today

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 9 (AP)—The Big Ten title in its grasp, Michigan's baseball team will send its ace pitchers, Southpaw Bliss Bowman and Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch, against Purdue in a double-header tomorrow.

Unbeaten in six conference games, the Wolverines need a single victory to finish ahead of second place Northwestern, whose season ended with eight victories and two defeats. Purdue occupies fifth place with four victories and three defeats.

Bowman and Hirsch hold earned run averages of slightly more than one run a game. Bowman has won five and lost one, yielding seven earned runs in 55 innings, while Hirsch, unbeaten in five games, gave up six earned runs in 45 innings.

Michigan is gunning for its 15th Big Ten baseball title and ninth since Ray Fisher closed a major league pitching career nearly 25 years ago to turn to coaching. The Wolverines have won seven other conference titles this school year, missing only in basketball.

Michigan's record for the season is 13 victories, two defeats and a tie.

ILLINI SEEKING TRACK HONORS

Sensational Negro Tops Entries In Milwaukee Competition

Milwaukee, June 9 (AP)—Unless unexpected trouble overhauls freshman Buddy Young tomorrow, Illinois figures to bring NCAA track and field glory back to the Big Ten for the first time since 1932.

The spectacular Illini negro is more than a mild favorite in both dash events, the broad jump and the low hurdles. Under the NCAA scoring system giving 10 points for first places, Illinois would have a 40-point backlog with Young fulfilling expectations, which with contributions from Captain Bob Kelley in the quarter and half mile events, probably would be enough to account for the title.

Southern California's Trojans who have monopolized the championship for nine years, will not be present to defend. The anticipated triumph for the Young and Co., would give Illinois its third NCAA title, the Illini having won the inaugural test in 1921 and repeating in 1927. Indiana was the last Big Ten school to win, taking the title in 1932.

Michigan Represented

Notre Dame, with a 10-man squad, is expected to land in the runnerup position.

Michigan's Big Ten champions who probably could have made a close, exciting team struggle of the meet, will be represented by only a small delegation. Ross and Bob Hume, co-champions in the one mile run, will try for their ninth straight dead-heat victory, and the basis of their 4:14.8 performance in the Central Collegiate Conference meet last week, are favored.

Only one defending champion, Fred Sheffield of Utah, who won the high jump last year, will return. Sheffield is favored to repeat, although he probably will get a tussle from Ken Wiesner of Marquette.

On the basis of season's performances no alterations are expected in the meet's gaudy list of records. Usually a two-day event, this 23rd edition will be packed into an afternoon and evening show in Marquette stadium. Finals in the javelin and discus will be held in the afternoon.

Wynn Gets Winning Run For Senators

Philadelphia, June 9 (AP)—Early Wynn pitched the Washington Senators to a seven-hit 2 to 1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics tonight, scoring the winning run himself.

Wynn singled to start the fifth inning, advanced on an error and scored on George Myatt's one-baser. The Senators scored in the first frame when George Case singled and went around the bases on a wild throw, an infield out and an outfield fly.

The Athletics' only run came in the sixth, on singles by Ford Garrison and Bobby Estalella, combined with an infield out. Washington 100 010 000—2 9 0
Philadelphia 000 001 000—1 2 0

First Month's Pay Netted Honus Wagner Three Bucks

BY SAM DAVIS
NEA Staff Correspondent

We sat in the cozy living room of Hans Wagner's cottage in Carnegie, Pa., his horny hands holding a paper—his 33rd big league baseball contract—a rem- iniscent grin crinkling his wrinkled face. Generations of years fell away, and in his mind, old Honus was young Honus again.

The crowd laughed when the howlegged youngster ambled to the plate, his long arms dangling to his knees. "He walks like a crab," gawfawed the stands. Before the game was over the fans had changed their simile to another amphibian. "The guy plays like an octopus—he's got a dozen arms," they gasped, for no ball hit anywhere near got past him.

A Matchless Career

Probably no other playing career in the big leagues matches that of Honus Wagner, beginning July 19, 1897, when he played his first big time game with Louisville until his swan song as shortstop Sept. 17, 1917. A star of stars for 21 years, 43 when he quit playing.

During that phenomenal stretch Wagner played every position except catcher, though he did catch an exhibition game and in 1902 pitched part of a game against Boston.

John Henry Wagner, one of five brothers, was born Feb. 24, 1874, in Mansfield, Pa., now known as Carnegie, six miles southwest of Pittsburgh. His father, Peter, and mother Katherine, from Bavaria, settled in the coal mining region.

John was 12 when he joined his brothers in the mining business, holding down a man's job and receiving a man's wages, six dollars a week. His dad, athletically inclined, track especially, was a stickler for calisthenics and roadwork. He put his boys through their paces every evening after work, miles and miles of hoofing on the dusty roads of the Allegheny foothills.

"You didn't get much book learning in the mines"—but experience was the good school.

Begins On Sandlot

It was while watching his older brother Al playing sandlot ball in Allegheny County League that J. H. was bitten by the bug—"I was just a punk kid of 15". He hung around, carrying bats, retrieving balls. Al advised him to be versatile, "learn to play every position," it would be easier to hook up.

At 16 he played for St. Lukes, "best team in and around Mansfield." He commenced hitting crosshanded. Brother Al reminded that, Squat and bandy legged Hans kept sand-lotting and mining till he was 21.

Al, who later saw service with Washington and Brooklyn, was playing for Steubenville, O., in Tri-State League in 1895. He recommended his kid brother to George L. Moreland, prominent sports writer (wrote One Hundred Years of Baseball.) Moreland telegraphed a contract calling for $35 a month. John re- sponded, "No, take it $40." From Ohio came "25 or stay home."

John was out of Mansfield that night via coal train and no extra clothes. "I knew the conductor."

Section 4 of Steubenville contract read: "I agree to pay for my own uniform and shoes to be taken out of my first pay."

Honus can't remember what he did with the remaining three dol- lars.

Rain Stops Tigers In Exhibition Game

Chicago, June 9 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers were prevented today by rain from meeting Lt. Comm. Mickey Cochrane's Great Lakes Bluejackets in an exhibition game at the naval training cen- ter.

Tomorrow the Tigers will re- sume their American league schedule by facing the Chicago White Sox in a single game. Paul Trout, seeking his eighth victory, will oppose bespectacled Bill Dietrich on the mound. Johnny Gorsica and Frank Overmire will pitch for Detroit in Sunday's double-header with the Sox.

Manager Steve O'Neill said to- day that Joe Hoover, who was hospitalized a week with a stom- ach disorder, would return to the shortstop post arrived today when Leslie Floyd, 26-year-old infielder with Texas league and Pacific Coast major league ex- perience, joined the club. Detroit acquired him from Portland of the Coast league.

The Tigers have lost four straight games to the White Sox since Hal Newhouser blanked them for 12 innings April 27. Chicago went one up in the series by winning 3 to 1 under the lights Wednesday.

The Tigers open a five game se- ries at Cleveland in a night game with the Indians Monday.

PATTY GETS TRANSFER

Chicago, June 9 (AP)—Second Lieutenant Patty Berg of the Ma- rines, who has been stationed at Philadelphia since last fall, will be transferred to the Chicago of- fice in time to be available to de- fend her championship in the Women's Western Golf tourna- ment, June 19-24, Marine officers said today.

Connie Mack Says Baseball Essential

Philadelphia, June 9 (AP)—Con- nie Mack gave a verbal pat on the back today to the local draft board that called baseball "essen- tial," while emphasizing that he would not dispute any board's de- cisions.

The board made the ruling in the case of Danny Litwhiler, St. Louis Cardinals outfielder and former Phillie, granting him a 2-A classification on the grounds that baseball "contributes to public welfare, health and interest."

While declining to comment on the case in its effect upon base- ball as a whole, Mr. Mack said, "I think the man on the board who declared baseball 'essential' really said something. Baseball has done a great deal for the army and navy."

STOCK CHOICES ARE SELECTIVE

BY VICTOR EURANK

New York, June 9 (AP)—It was another selective stock market today with low- priced issues providing the greatest per- centage of the volume.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 1.1 of a point at 52.8. Trans- actions totaled $49,570,800 compared with $61,780 the day before.

General Gas & Electric "A" was the fastest mover, up $\frac{1}{2}$ at 3 1-8, a new year's high, on blocks running to 22,000 shares. Proposed revision of recapitalization plans of the company's junior stocks spurred the revival.

Sinclair Oil was an early sprinter in the wake of a boosted dividend. It ended up 1-8 at 19 1-2. Pines for 1944 were touched by Willys-Overland, Hayes Mfg., Murray Corp., and White Sewing Machine pre-ferred.

BONDS MOVE UP

New York, June 9 (AP)—The bond mar- ket threw off some of the caution and in- decision that has ruled it since the in- vasion of Europe and came up with a fairly broad advance today under leadership of rails.

There were occasional laggards, but a majority of the more active issues ended the fraction to most of the day. A late rally that superseded a morning of narrow changes and cloudy trends. Sales totaled $19,870,800 compared with $9,886,100 on Thursday.

Among the 40-bid issues ending up a point or more were Pere Marquette (15, Peoria & Eastern, New Haven, New York Central 4-5, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5-6, Lehigh Valley 4 1/2, Interna- tional Telephone and Tel. Co. 4 1/2, Penn- sylvania 4 3/4, U. S. Steel 4 1/2 and St. Paul 4 1/2 and 5-6. Lows of as much included Florida East Coast 5-6, Childs Co. 5-6 and Erie 5-6.

The general run of industrials and util- ities, while less aggressive than the car- riers, held a generally steady course. U. S. governments and foreign dollar issues were mostly quiet.

Canada 5 1/2 and Chile 5-6 gave up a point or so while Mexico and Sydney 5 1/2 gained as much or more.

ing in the sign language.

We stopped to talk to two colonels—how did they like Russia? They liked it fine—even though they had slight headaches. Why the headaches?

"We found out about vodka," they said almost in chorus.

"Boy, are these Russian girls strong," said Lt. Strait Kimmons, of Houston, Texas. "I saw two of our G.I.s struggling along with a couple of big cans of soup. Then two Russian girls came up and took them away with a laugh. They handled the cans as if they were toys. Wow, what people!"

Up came Lt. Rodney Blaylock of Macon, Ga.

"This is a beautiful country and fine people," he said. "I've done a lot of travelling and seen lots of people and lots of countries since this war began, but when it comes to foreigners—give me Russians."

Second Lt. John Greenfield of Kingston, N. Y., said: "That goes for me, too."

Second Lt. William R. McCook of Oneonta, N. Y., undertook a tough assignment. When I visited him he was teaching a Russian lieutenant how to play gin rummy.

I looked in on Lt. John Johnson of Draffin, Ky.—the fellow who kept secret a painful appendix just to make the trip, only to be stricken later and operated on in Russia at an American field hospital. He is doing fine here—and I saw another one of those strange coincidences.

"Why I know his sister," smiled Nurse Josie Lee Vest of Whitesburg, Ky. "She's one of my good friends and look!—Here we meet in Russia and he's my patient."

Lt. John Puntch and Capt. Paul Smyers of Amarillo, Tex., hadn't seen each other since the war began. They met at this airbase.

"Of all places in the world to meet an old boy from Amarillo Junior College," said Puntch. "Why, you could have known me over with a flying fortress."

It was a case of a typical group of just plain American meeting and mixing with just plain Russians.

There were Major James F. Ellis of Dallas, Texas; Sgt. Dewey O. Stephens of Fresno, Calif.; Lt. Joseph Shuber of Cleveland, Ohio; Major Charles H. Hillhouse of Lafayette, Ga.; Lt. Leonard H. Kelly of Santa Monica, Calif.; Lt. James S. Stewart of Atlanta, Ga.

Sgt. Donald H. Smith of Chambersburg, Pa.; Sgt. Joseph M. Wilder of Conshohocken, Pa.; Capt. Russell H. Bradshaw of Rochester, N. Y.; Sgt. George Schmeckel of 330 West 22nd St. New York City; Capt. Walter Simmons of Tarboro, N. C.; Lt. Albert Jaroff of Portland, Oregon, who was born in Odessa, Russia, and Lt. David Morris of Georgetown, Washington, D. C.

To a man they liked Russia, and as far as they could find out the Russians liked them.

BODI PINERIES BEING FELLED

Much Timber Produced
In Newberry
Country

Newberry, Mich. — The Bodi Lake Lumber company's logging operations in the Bodi pines region is now well under way.

The company is cutting 15 million board feet of timber at its present location, and it is expected to acquire 25 million feet more in the near future.

At present, the logging crew of 75 men is concentrating on felling the white pines which average 30 to 37 inches at the stump and figure six to eight logs to the tree. The Norway pines average 20 inches on the stump.

According to Herman Beyersdorff, camp foreman and part owner, immediately after the pines have been felled the crew will retrace its steps to cut all hardwood timber. Hardwoods at the Bodi camp include: birch, beech, hemlock and maple.

Tractor Haul to Landing

Soon after a lumberjack yell, "Timber" at the Bodi camp, the logs are bucked and hauled one and a half miles to the landing by tractor. When an Allis-Chalmers Model "M" and HD-7 reach the landing, the logs start the trip through the mill and upon completion of this, trucks are waiting to make the 40 mile haul to the freight cars.

All timber logged at the Bodi camp is sold to the Chicago and Riverdale Lumber company in Chicago. Owners of the Bodi Lake Lumber company are Thomas W. Brown, Duncan C. McCrea and Mr. Beyersdorff.

Directly opposite the Bodi logging camp is the Ehlinger stationary mill, which is owned and operated by Antoine Ehlinger, who has been in the lumber business for more than twenty years. The mill has a sawing contract to handle all of the Bodi timber, averaging an output of about 25,000 board feet per day.

E. P. Allis Runs Mill
In a huge frame building which took 100,000 board feet of timber to construct, an E. P. Allis Corliss steam engine, well over 40 years old, is found supplying the power. The steam engine makes available 250 H. P. through the burning of sawdust and slabs. And this steam engine, with the aid of a 32 man crew, is solely responsible for the running of the rotary saw, heavy duty edger, horizontal band resaw (about 26 inches), trimmer, eight inch saw slasher, hot pond and pull chain, transfer chain, and the general running of the mill itself.

Just north of McMillan, about thirty miles, is the Northwestern Veneer and Plywood company forests, where timber is being contracted by James F. Goldthorpe Logging company. Goldthorpe has been logging in the company's timber for more than two years, and one of the features of the company is that all the timber is selectively logged. A forestry crew pushes its way through the 300-000 board feet of timber, marking the trees to be felled by the lumberjacks. Incidentally, this is a pioneer project for Michigan and probably the entire hardwood industry, for it is the first time that hardwoods have been selectively logged.

Makes Long Trip
The beech, birch, maple, along with some cork pine, travel 40 miles from the stump to the landing, where later they continue by rail for an additional 75 miles to the company's plant at Gladstone. The trunks of the trees are used for veneer and plywood with the remainder being turned over as chemical logs.

force intercepted a force of heavy German light craft and drove them off the beachhead area in the vicinity of the St. Marcouf Isles in the Seine Bay.

Bradley In Field
The previous communique, issued Friday shortly before noon, had announced continuing gains in all sectors.

The Germans said the Americans had advanced another mile beyond Ste. Mere Eglise, which is 18 miles southeast of Cherbourg, and intimated that the weak secondary roads left to the Nazis in the peninsula were already threatened if not broken by Allied paratroopers who, the enemy said, were operating on the other side of the peninsula near Lessay, bottleneck of the west coast road and a small spur railway.

The Americans, commanded by Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley, who himself was in the field, also made gains on the southeast flank of their 23-mile stretch of beachhead by capturing Formigny, mid-way east between Ste. Mere Eglise and Bayeux.

West and southwest of Bayeux the Allies held onto an important hill and poured their armor into a fight that may prove to be the key to the tank battleground between Bayeux and Caen.

The fiercest fighting of the whole invasion swirled around Caen, nine miles inland from the bay of the Seine, where at least two German panzer divisions were trying to hold that strong-point and win maneuverable control of the good tank-fighting zone to the west.

Prisoners Total 5,000

The headquarters communique made clear that the Allies also were getting their heavy armor into action and that the Germans had not been able to out-match it. It was disclosed that the Allies have taken 4,000 to 5,000 prisoners since the invasion began.

Near the Allied left flank in the Caen sector the British and Canadians withstood a furious German armored counter-attack.

One German spearhead gouged into the Canadian lines, said a front dispatch, but was thrown back again.

The whole Bayeux - Caen front was described as ablaze.

The Americans, personally commanded in the field by Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley, and the British and Canadians all are making "satisfactory progress," headquarters said, despite stiffening German resistance and ominously deteriorating weather that stopped virtually all air operations and hampered reinforcement of the beachheads.

The Germans acknowledged that the Americans had taken Ste. Mere Eglise, which is five and one-half miles inland on a main road, and advanced a mile farther north-west to positions about 17 miles southeast of the big port of Cherbourg.

German Tanks Stopped

It was announced by the Allies that American parachute troops who landed on D-Day near Ste. Mere Eglise had carried out the most successful air-borne operation in history. Some French paratroopers went along as guides.

The Americans, having linked up their air-borne and ground troops, were fanning out in two directions from the center of their beachhead near Carentan at the neck of the peninsula, and had taken more than 800 prisoners. Near the east flank of the Allied front, the Canadians fought off German tank attacks over open sights at 200 yards in an armored battle described as the largest yet fought since the invasion began Tuesday.

The British and Canadians were disclosed to have landed originally in the region of Berniers Sur Mer, 10 miles west of the Orne River mouth, and to have quickly captured Berniers. Field dispatches today said the British and Canadians had joined in the drive on Caen. The Canadian third division was one of those in action.

It was announced that besides Berniers, coastal villages taken by the Canadians and British the first day included Sourdevalles, St. Aubin, Lion, Luc, Ouistreham and Hamrune.

Boys In Normandy Now Getting Mail From Folks In U. S.

London, June 9 (AP)—United States troops on the Normandy battlefield now are receiving letters from home and by June 12 will be receiving parcel post packages, headquarters of the European theater of operations announced today.

As the fighting men marched to boats on D-Day there was a box for last minute letters in which they were permitted to say they were going into action.

Capt. Dennis Magnetti, Union City, N. J., U. S. Army postal control officer, said nearly every boat leaving the beachhead was carrying mail back and that it would be given "considerable priority."

BAD WEATHER CRIPPLES AIR INVASION TASK

Pontaubault, at a cost of two aircraft.

All these targets, including Rennes, 105 miles south of Cherbourg, are below the Normandy invasion coast, and the attacks were aimed at severing the main communication and reinforcement lanes between Field Marshal Gen. Edwin Rommel's Seventh and 15th armies in Normandy and those under Field Marshal Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz in southern France.

Reconnaissance revealed that in a previous attack one great six-ton "factory buster" bomb fell right across a railroad cut near the important junction of Saumur, 100 miles southeast of the battle area—an obstacle to German reinforcement from the south.

The assault in the area of Munich, a transport center for shuttling troops both from Germany toward Italy and also from the eastern front to the west, suggested methodical Allied aims of sealing off the Normandy front from Germany's "strategic reserve" areas elsewhere.

PETRILLO REELECTED

Chicago, June 9 (AP)—James C. Petrillo was reelected president of the AFL American Federation of Musicians for his fifth term today without opposition. Charles L. Bagley of Los Angeles was named vice-president, and Leo Chusmann of Newark, N. J., re-elected secretary.

ly merged and took shape as a continuous front, the weather grew worse and was described as almost as great an enemy as the German troops.

Weather Continues Bad
Winds, waves, clouds and rain have interfered with the operations since the first troops stepped onto the beaches Tuesday. On Wednesday the channel was so rough that unloading had to be halted for a time. It improved somewhat Thursday, and the convoys began to make up for lost time, but by Friday conditions had become worse, with gusty wind, fog and mist that at times cut visibility to a half-mile.

D-Day itself was described by one naval officer as "one of the greatest cases of mass seasickness in the history of the world."

In spite of the weather, the Allies made it clear they had been able to put ashore at least enough men, tanks and guns to balance anything the Germans thus far have moved up, but conditions were such that there was not a single report of air activity Friday in direct support of the invasion.

The Allied bag of prisoners totaled well over 2,400, with one Allied division having captured more than 1,000, the Americans more than 800, and the Canadians 600. Some Russians and Poles pressed into German uniform were among the prisoners taken by the Americans.
